The New England British Reliability Run

“Coddiwomple 2018”

Lobsters & Lighthouses

September 7th—9th

For 2018 the New England British Reliability Run we will be touring the many small harbors along the New Hampshire & Maine coast in search of lighthouses and delicious “Homarus Americanus” (lobsters!). You can expect beautiful views of the coast as we motor on back roads through historic villages, some dating back to the 1600’s! Never far from the ocean, we will have ample opportunities to see & visit famous lighthouses that protect the harbors of New Hampshire and Maine, some that have stood guard from before the Revolution! Of course, being so near to the sea, there is much more than lighthouses to look forward to...did I mention the lobsters? I’m not at all certain there isn’t a better combination than crisp fall weather, the smell of the ocean and the taste of a lobster tail dripping with butter! Our route will take us through the tiny harbors and rocky coves that Maine and New Hampshire are famous for, framed by the fall colors that will just be beginning to grace the scenery...the drives should be spectacular.

Oh, and did I mention the lobsters?!
